COMPANY WORKFORCE

Amon Security Services currently employs approximately 400 trained security guards, supported by a 15-person office administration team and a dedicated fleet of 10 drivers, deployed across six branches covering Namibia's key economic centres: Windhoek (Head Office), Oshikango, Walvis Bay, Swakopmund, Rundu, and Oshakati. This footprint allows us to service clients in the capital as well as the northern border towns, the coastal towns, and the Kavango region without relying on subcontracted guarding companies.

.02 FLEET & DRIVERS

Our 10 dedicated drivers operate our fleet of patrol vehicles, armed-response vehicles, and cash-in-transit vans. Drivers are vetted to the same standard as our guarding staff and receive defensive driving and route-security training, since much of their work involves transporting cash, valuables, or personnel between client sites.

TOOLS AND EQUIPMENT

Our officers are deployed with equipment appropriate to the risk profile of each site, and our fleet and control room are equipped to support rapid, verifiable, and coordinated response.

Guarding & Personal Equipment

Two-way radios / walkie-talkies issued to every guard on duty

GPS- and NFC-enabled patrol tagging devices for electronic checkpoint verification

High-visibility reflective jackets and identifiable branded uniforms

Torches / flashlights for night patrols

Firearms and less-lethal equipment for armed officers

Handcuffs, batons, and standard personal protective equipment (PPE)

First aid kits at guarded sites and in patrol vehicles

Body-worn identification, access cards, and where required, body cameras

CONTROL ROOM OPERATION

Coordination between officers, site supervisors, and our control room is maintained through a secure, encrypted two-way radio (walkie-talkie) network that connects our guards countrywide. This dedicated channel structure allows officers on the ground to communicate instantly with site supervisors and the control room without relying on public mobile networks, which can be congested, expensive, or unreliable in more remote areas.

01 Encrypted channels reduce the risk of interception or unauthorised listening on operational communications.

02 Dedicated channels per site or region prevent cross-talk and keep communication relevant to the guards on that site.

03 Direct link from guards to armed-response and control room, shortening response times during an incident.

04 Radios are checked and tested at shift handover as part of our standard site procedures, so faults are identified before they can affect coverage.

05 The network extends across all six branches (Windhoek, Oshikango, Walvis Bay, Swakopmund, Rundu, and Oshakati) allowing regional control rooms to stay in contact with head office.

This radio backbone works alongside our electronic patrol reporting system: where a guard misses a checkpoint or an incident is flagged, supervisors are able to raise it immediately over the radio network rather than waiting for an end-of-shift report.

DETAILED PATROL REPORTING SYSTEM

To give our clients verifiable, real-time proof of guard performance, Amon Security Services uses an electronic patrol management system (currently the Instacom platform) at monitored sites. Guards carry a patrol device and tag GPS- or NFC-enabled checkpoints placed around the client's property at set intervals throughout the shift. Each tag records the exact time, date, and GPS coordinate at which the guard passed that point, creating a tamper-evident record of the patrol.

Clients receive a Detailed Per Patrol Report summarising, for a given site and date range, the total number of patrol rounds completed, the percentage of checkpoints tagged versus missed, and the duration of each round – with any missed checkpoint flagged for follow-up by the site supervisor. A sample extract from one of our monitored sites, the Gwashamba Mall site, over a 24-hour reporting period is shown below to illustrate the level of detail our clients receive:

11/11

Patrols Completed

55 / 55

Missed Checkpoints

Sample patrol rounds (Gwashamba Mall site, 19:00–05:00):

Patrol Round	Tags Set	Tagged	Completion	Duration
19:00 Round	5	5	100%	9m 54s
20:00 Round	5	5	100%	10m 09s
21:00 Round	5	5	100%	9m 25s
00:00 Round	5	5	100%	13m 06s
03:00 Round	5	5	100%	10m 24s
05:00 Round	5	5	100%	7m 43s

Each round in the full report also records the individual checkpoint names (for example, "Clicks receiving", "Back side Foschini", "Generator", "Shoprite staff entrance"), the exact GPS coordinate tagged, and space for supervisors to log answers to site-specific patrol questions. This level of detail allows our clients to confirm not only that a guard was on-site, but that the guard physically walked the required route, at the required times, for the full duration of the shift.
